Background UN convention

The basic principle of the UN Convention is that people with disabilities can participate fully in society: In an inclusive society, people with disabilities have control over their own lives, are equal, are not discriminated against and have access to the same facilities and services as people without disabilities

The reason for the Rotterdam Unlimited program is the UN Convention on the Rights of Persons with Disabilities (ratification 14 July - 2016). The starting point of the UN Convention is that people with disabilities can participate fully in society
